

Parents, Baby Escape Injury in Crash

Ford sedan in which Mr. and Mrs. Mark Knoll and three-months-old son, William, narrowly escaped being crushed to death at 11:15 o'clock last night, as they turned off U. S. route 30 into the driveway at the farm home, one mile west of the Harmon road intersection. West bound stock truck driven by Mervin Motz of Bennett, Iowa, was unable to stop and crashed into the Knoll car then into a large tree. The Knoll car, right, was demolished. Details below.

Two Truck Crashes in Space of 150 Ft. on Rt. 30 Last Night

None of Occupants of Colliding Vehicles Is Seriously Hurt

Trucks operating too close to other traffic were responsible for two bad accidents on U. S. route 30 about one mile west of the Harmon road junction during the night, the collisions occurring within a distance of less than 150 feet. Miraculously none of the occupants of wrecked vehicles was seriously injured, although one truck driver, Henry McElroy of Chicago, was thrown from the cab of his vehicle across the paving into a ditch. He was taken to the Sterling public hospital, but was released this morning, having sustained only cuts and bruises.

The first of the two crashes occurred at 11:15 o'clock directly in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Knoll. Mr. and Mrs. Knoll and three-months-old son, William were returning home and were about to turn from the highway into their farm yard, when a stock truck loaded with empty egg cases and driven by Mervin Motz of Bennett, Iowa, crashed into their sedan.

The driver of the truck attempted to avoid the crash by turning off the paving, but crashed into the sedan which was crushed and practically demolished. Mr. and Mrs. Knoll and baby were badly shaken up and sustained bruises, but were not seriously injured. The truck tractor crashed into a large tree near the entrance to the Knoll farm, one side of the cab being crushed, but the driver escaped with only minor cuts.

Two Trucks Crash

At 5 o'clock this morning, several Keeshin trucks were reported to be travelling west, about 150 feet west of the driveway entering the Knoll farm when two of the fleet crashed. Frank Paulin of Chicago was the driver of the first truck, on which some defect occurred causing the brakes to lock. Henry McElroy of Chicago, another Keeshin driver, was reported to have turned out to pass the first truck, when he observed a car coming toward him from the opposite direction.

Returning to the west bound traffic lane, he was unable to stop his heavily loaded truck, which crashed into the rear of the first trailer. The tractor of McElroy's truck was demolished as the motor was driven against the rear of the first truck. McElroy was thrown from the cab across the east bound traffic lane and into the ditch. His purse fell from his pocket as he was thrown from the cab of the tractor, and some time later, it was found in a ditch on the opposite side of the highway. Some spectator at the scene of the crash had found the pocketbook, emptied it of the cash and thrown it into the ditch, according to state police, who were called to the scene.

Both trucks were loaded with general merchandise cargoes which had to be transferred to other trucks before the wreckage could be cleared. State officers were reported to have stated that

The War Today!

With the compass being boxed by speculation as to where the Japanese are likely to strike next, attention has been diverted from one of the great allied danger spots in which the Japanese already are achieving success, and that is in their fierce drive through the Burmese back-door to China.

There are, of course, several offensives which the Japanese might undertake—against India, Australia, Russian Siberia—but there's one thing about which we can be dead sure—that they intend to conquer China. After all, China is the keystone of their grandiose expansionist program. Hence their assault on Burma, which is a matter of anxiety for the allies.

Already the Japs have overrun lower Burma, blocking the famous Burma road over which China was getting virtually all her military supplies from the outside world; they have fought their way up the Irrawaddy river into the oil fields upon which the Chinese have been depending for their vital oil supply; and unless the invaders can be held there, they may stagger the world by putting an army into Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's capital of Chungking and overrunning all the rest of southern China.

China certainly would be hard hit by such a triple tragedy—loss of her lifeline to the outside world, loss of the oil which is essential to her war effort.

What do you do with today's newspaper tomorrow? Tie it up with others in a 100-pound bundle and sell it, urges Governor Green.

Thus today's paper tomorrow becomes part of America's victory machine.

We must produce 9,000,000 tons of paperboard this year to pack shells, guns and planes for our men at the front.

"Unbelievable", Says Radio Man in Describing Lt. O'Hare's Epic Fight

Chicago, April 14.—(AP)—A warship radio man who witnessed Lieut. Edward O'Hare's epic fight today related today how he and his comrades feared the outnumbered flier was a goner, then cheered like a football crowd as he shot down each of six Japanese bombers and sent three fleeing home.

Joseph Charles Brazda, 25, home on leave, said all the other fighters were down when a wave of Jap planes arrived.

"Somebody yelled: 'Nine of them and he's up there alone!'"

"After that nobody said a word; they were all just watching and hoping and praying; everyone thought the flier was gone."

"As the Japs came closer overhead he could see that O'Hare was above them and then, like a hawk, he swooped down on one of them and fired—and that one started crashing down into the sea."

"He's got one!" an officer shouted, and everybody gave a cheer.

O'Hare zoomed around and in what seemed like a couple of seconds he was up above them again.

Illinois Primary Is First Big Election Since Pearl Harbor

Rest of Nation Watches Outcome of Battle at Polls, on Today

Chicago, April 14.—(AP)—Illinois voters came out by the hundreds of thousands today to demonstrate how a democracy works in war time.

They marked ballots in the first major primary election held in the United States since Pearl Harbor. With complete freedom of choice, they nominated candidates for U. S. senator, for 26 congressional seats and a large category of state and local offices.

The paramount issue was successful prosecution of the war. All candidates agreed that it must be won, and quickly. The big question in the minds of po-

Election Facts

(By The Associated Press)

Today's Illinois primary election in brief:

Polls open at 6 a. m., and close at 5 p. m. CWT.

To Be Nominated—Republican and Democratic candidates for United States senator, congressman-at-large, state treasurer, superintendent of public instruction, 25 congressmen, 153 candidates for state representatives, 27 state senators, county sheriffs, judges and other county candidates.

To Be Elected—25 members of each party's state central committee.

Precincts—4,552 in Cook county; 4,050 downstate; 8,612 in Illinois.

litical observers was "How many voters will leave their occupations to exercise one of the rights they are fighting for?"

Favorable weather throughout the state lent hope that the pleas of Gov. Dwight H. Green, himself not a candidate, and others for a big turnout of voters would be granted. Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes has predicted that preoccupation with the war would hold the vote to about 1,585,000, which would be the lowest in 20 years. But Ben L. Berve, Republican state chairman, and others place the total higher.

Polling places in the state's 8,612 precincts opened at 6 a. m. (CWT) and will close at 5 p. m.

While all the major candidates stood stanchly on a victory platform, each party had a collateral issue of its own. In the Republican primary it was the pre-war isolationism of Sen. C. Wayland Brooks. Brooks was elected as an anti-interventionist and that's the way he voted in the senate.

State Treasurer Warren Wright, his principal opponent, came out in favor of President Roosevelt's international policies four days before the Japs reached Pearl Harbor. He has not hesitated to make a point of this during the campaign.

Drastic New Tax Boosts Opposed

Washington, April 14.—(AP)—The administration was reported authoritatively today to have decided against asking for drastic new tax increases as a means of combating inflation.

Attempts were under way to compose disagreements among high government officials over a broad program envisioning the freezing of prices, wages, profits and bonuses.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., was represented by his aides as believing the present $7,600,000,000 tax program was sufficient, that voluntary purchases of war bonds could be stepped up to $11,000,000,000 a year, thus absorbing excess purchasing power, and that consumer merchandise should be rationed.

Janesville "Loop" Scene of $300,000 Fire During Night

Janesville, Wis., April 14.—(AP)—Fire of unknown origin swept through half a block of downtown Janesville last night, destroying five buildings and damaging several others at a loss estimated unofficially at $300,000.

Janesville firemen, aided by departments from Beloit, Milton, Edgerton, Evansville and Whitewater, fought the blaze for five hours before extinguishing it. Firemen from Delavan and Fort Atkinson also gave assistance. Apparatus from the latter two cities stood by, but it was not found necessary to dispatch it to Janesville.

Three firemen were injured. There were Assistant Fire Chief Robert Moses of Beloit, who suffered a cut vein in his right arm; William Mayo of Beloit, who suffered a broken arm and other injuries in a fall; and Herbert Flannery of Janesville, who was overcome by smoke. All were in good condition today.

A spectator, C. H. Ross, 57, of Springfield, O., was knocked into the Rock river by the force of one of several explosions which accompanied the conflagration. He was rescued by firemen and apparently suffered no ill effects.

The Janesville Gazette, in estimating the total loss, said it would exceed the $250,000 blaze of April, 1913, which occurred immediately east of the scene of last night's fire.

Fall Into Rock River

The fire, reported to have started in the basement of a two-story building occupied by the W. T. Grant Company, on the south side of West Milwaukee street, spread quickly to adjoining buildings occupied by the Trade Home Shoe Store and the Dixie Shop, women's apparel store. These three structures collapsed into the Rock river, which they partly overhung.

PLAN RECONSTRUCTION

Kewanee, Ill., April 14.—(AP)—Kewanee went to work today on plans for rebuilding its razed business district, through which the city's most disastrous conflagration in its history raged yesterday.

Even as the ruins still smoked, business and city officials got together on the reconstruction plans. Fire Chief Al Stunslatz estimated the loss might reach $2,500,000.

Mayor Mark A. Saunders, expressing optimism that priorities on building materials could be obtained, went into conference with Mason Haigh of the Peoria office of the War Production Board to formulate a report on the question. It was planned to forward the report to the emergency repair and maintenance division of the WPB in Washington.

Meanwhile Gov. Dwight H. Green telephoned the mayor his willingness to aid Kewanee in what he described as its "unfortunate situation." Members of the Illinois Reserve Militia continued to guard the stricken area, in which 20 buildings and 50 offices and apartments were either destroyed or damaged.

Fire insurance adjusters swung into action and the state fire marshal was scheduled to confer with Chief Stunslatz in an effort to determine the exact cause of the fire, which apparently started on the first floor of the Kewanee Dry Goods store.

COUNTRY HOME BURNS

Aurora, Ill., April 14.—(AP)—The English style country home of Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, president of the Whiting Corporation, was destroyed by fire yesterday at an estimated loss of more than $100,000.

Fire Capt. Bert Schoo said the fire apparently was set off by a spark from an electric switch which ignited vapors of inflammable paint-removing fluid being applied by redecorators.

General Hammond was not at home at the time and his wife was ill in an Aurora hospital. Only domestics were in the home when the blaze started.

Night Attempt to Invade Corregidor Seen in Maneuvers

Summary of War News in South Pacific Is Prepared by AP

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

Greatly outnumbered American and Filipino troops were officially reported putting up stubborn resistance to Japanese invasion forces today on Cebu island, in the central Philippines, while Lieut. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright's defenders of Corregidor underwent four more assaults by Japanese bombers.

The Japanese force on Cebu, 250 miles south of Manila, was estimated at 12,000.

In the battle for the approaches to India, British headquarters reported that RAF planes had destroyed or damaged 13 Japanese flying boats in a smashing attack on Japan's new bases in the Andaman islands, in the Bay of Bengal.

A war department bulletin said that communication between Cebu and Corregidor had been re-established and that heavy fighting was in progress, with "our troops stubbornly resisting the advance of the enemy."

On Corregidor, the last major American-Filipino bastion in the battle of Luzon, the war department said heavy Japanese bombers inflicted some troop casualties but only slight damage to military installations.

"Enemy batteries shelled Corregidor and Fort Frank from positions on both sides of Manila Bay," the communique said.

"Our guns returned the fire."

The war department also reported sharp skirmishes on Mindanao island, 600 miles south of Manila.

Imperial Tokyo headquarters asserted today that Japan's invasion armies had captured 40,000 prisoners, including 15 generals, since the beginning of the Bataan offensive in the Philippines, while on the Burma front British headquarters

Urges Seizure of French Holdings

Washington, April 14.—(AP)—United States seizure of French possessions was demanded in the house today as a reply to plans of Vichy France for a new government embracing axis-admirer Pierre Laval.

"Today a traitor received his thirty pieces of silver," commented Poage (D-Tex.), who describes Laval as "the enemy of all free people."

Poage urged closer cooperation between the United States and the Free French government, including the occupation of strategically located French possessions.

Representative Gossett (D-Tex.) predicted "the complete and inglorious end" of the French republic if the French fleet is turned over to Germany.

"No policy of appeasement can be successful," asserted Rep. Faddis (D-Pa.) in demanding that the United States "by force," if necessary, seize all French possessions "we believe necessary for the successful prosecution of the war."

"It comes with poor grace," for France "to now turn against us in this trying hour," said Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.).

Neutral Reports Indicate Germans Resigned to an Impending Invasion

London, April 14.—(AP)—Reports reaching London from neutral capitals today indicated the German high command was resigned to an impending invasion of Europe by allied forces and afraid that the attack would come at a place where it was not expected.

The well-publicized visit of Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. Army Chief of Staff, and Harry Hopkins, adviser to President Roosevelt, has given Berlin an advanced case of jitters which was being answered by statements of bravado, these reports showed.

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Demokrat reported a German high command spokesman as saying:

U. S. Subs Account for 215 Japanese Vessels Thus Far

Washington, April 14.—(AP)—Preying on the enemy's vital supply lines regardless of the peril, U. S. submarines, such as the Seawolf, have accounted for approximately one-fourth of all the 215 Japanese ships sunk or damaged by American action since the war began.

Naval observers here were quick to note that the new commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, was an old pigboat man, and that the increase of submarine successes has been mounting since he supplanted Admiral Husband E. Kimmel.

On several occasions Tokyo has broadcast warnings of American submarines in Japanese waters and the possibility of raids on coastal areas.

The unofficial compilation of the toll taken by American submarines was made after the navy disclosed details of the Seawolf's highly successful cruise. It showed that of 215 enemy vessels sunk, probably sunk or damaged, submarines operating from the Indian ocean to the very Japanese coast have been credited with 36 sinkings, 12 probable sinkings and 10 attacks which resulted in damage to the enemy.

Seawolf Makes Record

The Seawolf was credited with the largest number of successful attacks known to have been made by a single American undersea raider, and naval authorities said that its achievement probably unmatched in the records of U. S. pigboat operations.

The Seawolf's cruise in the Indian ocean south of the Dutch Indies began late in February and continued throughout March and into early April. In that period of possibly 40 days or more the sub sank a Japanese light cruiser, a destroyer and a large transport and damaged two light cruisers, a large transport and an unidentified ship—seven ships in all.

Moreover the attacks were pressed home against strong enemy resistance. Again and again the Seawolf was counter-attacked by enemy destroyers using depth charges but it returned to its home base unscathed, the navy reported.

The navy called the cruise "one

Passage of French Fleet to Germany Soon Is Expected

Laval's Return to French Cabinet "Tactical De- feat" U. Nations

By The Associated Press

France moved sharply toward greater collaboration with Germany today as Chief of State Marshal Philippe Petain decided to form a new government including Pierre Laval, chief exponent of stronger ties with the reich, and Admiral Jean Darlan, anti-British vice premier.

The 58-year-old Marshal's decision, stirring immediate speculation on the possibility of France turning her still powerful fleet over to Adolf Hitler, aroused somber repercussions in London.

The Vichy government shake-up was followed late today by the Petain regime's refusal to accept a United States note explaining the recent establishment of an American consulate at Brazzaville, French Equatorial Africa.

The Petain government declared the American communication was "insolent."

Russians Open Up

On the Russian war front, a Stockholm radio broadcast said Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red armies in the Ukraine had forced a "deep breach" in the German lines 25 miles north of the great steel city of Kharkov.

German reports also indicated that the Russians had opened a big-scale new offensive on the Moscow front and had pierced Nazi defenses at some points.

Foreign diplomatic sources in Bern, Switzerland, said Laval would take over a newly-created post as "Chief of Government" on Thursday and that heightened French-German collaboration might result in a diplomatic break with the United States.

These quarters said that Petain, although remaining Chief of State, would become little more than a figurehead, that Vice Premier Darlan would retain only his present post as foreign minister, and that the posts of premier and vice premier probably would be abolished.

With the loss of his navy minister post, Admiral Darlan presumably would have little opportunity to prevent the French fleet from being passed to Germany by the bitterly anti-British Laval, who now becomes France's most powerful figure.

"Tactical Defeat" for U. S.

Informed British quarters said the British government took "an exceedingly grave view" of Laval's re-entry into the Vichy government.

Diplomatic sources said Laval's return was a "tactical defeat" for the United Nations diplomatic campaign, waged through the state department in Washington, to win Vichy away from the axis.

The Vichy government decision fitted into the Nazi scheme of greater collaboration, and the feeling was manifest in high diplomatic quarters in London that much stronger measures against Vichy were the only answer—probably including a tighter blockade and new strength for General Charles de Gaulle's Free French.

Some sources predicted that with both Darlan and Laval in the French cabinet, Germany stands a better chance than ever of getting the French fleet for axis operations against Britain.

Other Developments

Other major developments in the European war theater included:

1. Russian Front—Russia's armies, pressing their furious winter-to-spring offensive, were reported to have launched an attack of extreme violence on the Moscow front.

British Exchange Telegraph quoted the Berlin radio as announcing that six Soviet divisions (perhaps 90,000 troops), including an entire tank division, succeeded in dislodging German lines at some points and that the battle still was in progress.

The broadcast also said the Russians were attacking in the Donets basin on the southern (Ukraine) front, where the Red armies have been driving against Kharkov, Taganrog and Dniepropetrovsk.

2. London—Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. Army Chief of Staff, conferred with one of Britain's top experts on invasion tactics, Lord Louis Mountbatten, chief of British commandos.

3. Berlin—Hitler's high command asserted that German U-boats and planes had sunk 15 more merchant ships totalling

Of Interest to Farmers

Shortage of Sweet Corn This Year is Feared by Cannery

Not Enough Acreage in Sight to Meet War Needs, They Say

A majority of the cannery in this state have reported to the State USDA War Board that they were not able to secure sufficient sweet corn acreage from farmers to meet the government requirements for canned corn. Faced with this probable shortage of canned corn, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has again stressed the necessity of producing at least as much sweet corn in 1942 as was produced in 1941, and has requested the state and county USDA War Boards to do their utmost to cooperate with both farmers and cannery in obtaining sufficient sweet corn acreage to meet this goal.

Sweet corn acreage has gone begging in many instances because farmers have been under the impression that the government preferred to have them grow soy beans instead of sweet corn. The following statement from Lee M. Gentry, chairman, Illinois USDA War Board, clearly shows the relative positions of both crops. Mr. Gentry states:

"We have a goal of 2,900,000 acres of soy beans for 1942 in Illinois, and the intentions to plant show that farmers anticipate planting 3,200,000 acres, 300,000 acres above the goal. The total acreage of sweet corn in Illinois is slightly in excess of 60,000 acres, so the obtaining of this goal will not interfere materially with soy bean production."

Mr. Gentry also clarifies another question in the farmer's mind when he says:

"The only reason sweet corn was not included as one of the war crops is that the secretary did not ask for an increase in the acreage of sweet corn, but he does expect farmers to maintain the acreage planted in 1941."

A recent increase in price to farmers for growing sweet corn in 1942 has been made in order to cooperate with the government program for greatly increased production of canned foods and to assure farmers a favorable net per acre return for sweet corn compared with competing crops. The government has issued an order requiring that the canning factories set aside 23% of their 1942 sweet corn production to take care of the requirements of our armed forces and lend-lease. This order clearly indicates the importance of canned sweet corn in the war food program, a program in which the full cooperation of every individual is essential to successful prosecution of the war.

Farm Engineering News Briefs by U. I.

By R. C. HAY
Extension Agricultural Engineer,
University of Illinois,
College of Agriculture

Gasoline, the tractor fuel used in three-fourths of our Illinois tractors, should be used within 60 days from the date delivered on the farm. When kept in storage longer, some gasoline tends to form a gum that may clog fuel systems, cause burned valves and serious delays in busy seasons. Proper storage of gasoline also calls for storage in clean drums or tanks in a shed or under ground so as to be sheltered from sun and rain. Fuel transfer cans and funnels should all be kept clean to prevent possible fuel line trouble.

To operate a tractor at full load costs only one-eighth more than at half load, but twice as much work is accomplished. The only noticeable difference in full-load operating costs is increased fuel consumption. Other costs, including labor, depreciation and maintenance, remain almost the same. Farmers who are pressed for labor this year can well keep this in mind. Pulling more than one implement at a time and operating at higher speeds are two ways to keep the tractor well loaded.

The use of contour farming and grass waterways are practices rapidly increasing in popularity in some parts of the state. When used on fields well adapted to these practices or where gullies are forming, fuel and time may actually be saved in working on the contour as compared with working up and down hill. Furthermore control of gullies with grass waterways may save machinery by making it possible to cross the draws without breakage or damage to machines.

Angry Farmers of Wisconsin Gather to Fight CIO Plans

Thousands Meet at Chippewa Falls; Denounce J. L. Lewis and Aides

Washington, April 14—(AP)—The drive of John L. Lewis to organize dairy farmers as a unit of his United Mine Workers Union (CIO) prompted leaders of some of the nation's major farm organizations to plan a vigorous resistance.

They met informally Monday afternoon in preparation for appearance Friday before a house judiciary sub-committee to support legislation which spokesmen described as intended to end "racketeering" by labor unions.

Edward A. O'Neil, president of the American Farm Bureau, one of the farm organizations involved, described the Lewis dairy farmer drive as a "racket" and said he and other farm group leaders would appear before the committee to support legislation to provide for the prosecution of labor racketeers.

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—A group of more than 1,000 angry, bewildered farmers met here Saturday to take action against John L. Lewis' avowed intention to organize the dairy industry as an affiliate of his CIO United Mine Workers union.

Their anger was apparent in the vigor with which they denounced the CIO and the bitterness with which they mentioned Lewis. Their bewilderment lay in the fact that none of them knew whether CIO organizers were already at work in their communities, how they would work or where they would strike.

Rumors flew back and forth among the farmers, all members of the Wisconsin Farmers Equity union which claims 5,000 members in 18 counties, but no one could state definitely that the CIO campaign was under way.

Warned to Act Now
Kenneth W. Hones, president of the equity union, told the farmers he did not know whether Lewis had started work among the members and other dairy groups in the state, but he warned them that if they did not organize immediately their own free will the time would soon come when they would have no choice in the matter but would be forcibly organized by such men as Lewis.

"This is not a labor baiting meeting," Hones declared, "for we farmers believe in the right to organize and bargain collectively. But we want and demand the right to organize ourselves."

"Lewis has no legitimate right to trespass in the field of agriculture," he continued, "as he is not a specialist in agricultural fields. We will not permit any labor leader or labor organization to come into our field for purely selfish purposes and destroy us."

"The time will come when the American farmer will sit at the table where the peace following this war will be written. The only person who can sit there is the American farmer and not a so-called labor leader who is not even in good repute with his own union."

Many of the farmers attending the two day meeting had tales to tell of CIO organizers filtering into various communities and dairy plants. None however could prove their statements.

Frank C. Pernstein, manager of a large cooperative creamery in Medford, stated that most of the inside workers in dairy plants in the northern part of the state were members of the AFL teamsters union and had been organized for three or four years. "We have had no trouble or sign of any CIO campaign yet," he said, "but most of us feel sure that Lewis is trying first to organize workers in the dairy plants. He then will undoubtedly turn his attention to the individual producers."

Called Independent Group
Ralph E. Ammon, director of the state department of agriculture, told the meeting that farmers are an independent group that does not have identical interests with labor or capital. "While the farmer may work with labor or capital," he said, "it will never be to his advantage to lose himself within either of the groups."

"The control of agriculture should rest in the hands of the farmers. They should organize themselves."

"Periodically some ambitious so-called labor leader gets the idea of organizing the farmers and getting a fee from them to swell his own coffers and personal power," Ammon declared. "These attempts have always failed. These attempts have always failed. However, this type of sniping at the farmer from time to time has weakened agriculture by taking money from it and sapping its strength."

Warned of Bureaucracy
"The farmer must fight not only control of labor leaders but also must fight the attempts of bureaucracy to throttle agriculture. Big corporations are trying to control the produce of the dairy farms and governmental and other agencies are trying to regulate the farmer beyond what is best for him."

The meeting will continue tomorrow and officials of the equity are expected to begin an intensive drive for membership as a means of meeting any drive the CIO might make.

Ogle County Farm Bureau News Notes

A series of plots containing ten varieties of oats have been seeded on the Robert Fridley farm south of Mt. Morris for a demonstration of the characteristics of the different varieties in a project of the Ogle County Farm Bureau.

The varieties used, according to D. E. Warren are: Iowa, Vanguard, Vickland, Iowa 103, Marion, Boone, Gopher, Tama, Columbia and Legacy. These, he said, are the same varieties as were used last year with the addition of Tama and Vickland which are new and promise to give good results in this area.

Farmers will be invited to attend a demonstration meeting at those plots when the oats are mature to study the characteristics of growth and yield and resistance to disease and lodging. The object of the demonstration is not only to see what varieties are adapted in Ogle county but to find whether certain varieties that are sold at rather high prices in the county are worth what they are claimed to be by salesmen.

A party of fifteen directors and staff members of the Ogle County Farm Bureau attended a statewide farm leaders meeting at Springfield on Friday, April 10 to take part in a discussion of relationship problems concerning the farmers' organizations.

Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, and Donald Kirkpatrick, legal counsel for the American Farm Bureau Federation, were the chief speakers. The principal import of their discussions was the need of conserving appropriations and personnel of various agricultural agencies that were set up to serve an emergency in agricultural depression and should be kept intact when needed, but whose service need not be expanded more when farmers are getting fair prices as a rule for their products. The speakers stressed avoidance of duplication in expenses by the different organizations in carrying on their programs.

Attending the meeting at Springfield were: Ed L. Stengel, president of the Farm Bureau, Mt. Morris; Albert Cashman, C. C. Shrader, George Hammer of Polo; W. F. Schreiber, Leaf River; Willard Hayenga, Stillman Valley; Tom Richardson, Davis Junction; John Loggren, Kings; G. R. Townsend, Rochelle; Henry Rommers, Oregon; Clare Bradford, Richard Bradford, Guy Hawkins, M. C.

The five high producing cows were as follows:
Getzendaner Farm, R.H., 2573 lbs. of milk, 92.6 lbs. of fat.

Clarence Ratmeyer, G.H., 2337 lbs. of milk, 86.5 lbs. of fat.

Richard Magee, R.H., 2230 lbs. of milk, 82.5 lbs. of fat.

L. M. Gentry, R.H., 2000 lbs. of milk, 74.0 lbs. of fat.

Forrest Gillespie, R.H., 2046 lbs. of milk, 69.6 lbs. of fat.

Ogle county was second high in the state for butterfat production for the month of January and fourth high in the state for the month of February. This proves that Ogle county farmers are doing their part for national defense.

WHEAT PRODUCERS TO VOTE
Saturday, May 2, 1942, has been set as the date wheat producers of the nation will vote in a referendum as to whether or not marketing quotas on wheat will be effective for the 1942 wheat crop.

Marketing quotas are the means of orderly marketing of the nation's tremendous wheat reserve and a referendum to invoke marketing quotas is held only when the supply of wheat exceeds the domestic and export needs and all other requirements plus an ample reserve.

Indications are that this nation will have a carryover of 630 million bushels as of July 1, 1942. This is the largest carryover on record and 250 million bushels larger than the 1932 carryover.

The above facts are the reasons wheat producers are to vote on marketing quotas on the 1942 wheat crop. More than two-thirds of the wheat producers voting must vote in favor of quotas before they become effective.

If more than two-thirds of the wheat producers vote for wheat marketing quotas the quotas then become effective. A wheat producer who has an allotment of over fifteen acres and plants within his allotment can market all the wheat produced, a wheat producer who has an allotment of less than fifteen acres can plant up to fifteen acres and market all he produces. Any farmer who does not have a wheat allotment can plant fifteen acres and market all the wheat produced. If a wheat producer who has an allotment of 15.1 acres or over exceeds his allotment he will be required to pay a penalty of one-half the loan rate per bushel on the excess acres times the normal or actual yield per acre, whichever is smaller.

If less than two-thirds of the wheat producers voting vote for marketing quotas then quotas will not become effective and all wheat may be marketed without penalty.

If wheat quotas are voted down there will be no wheat loan to stimulate the market price of wheat and with the largest carryover of wheat on record and practically all foreign markets cut off wheat producers can form their own opinion as to what will be the market price of the 1942 wheat crop.

There will be three voting places in the county. Hamilton township producers can vote at the Hamilton township town hall, Harmon, East Grove and Marion townships producers can vote at the Farmers' elevator at Harmon

Farm Debts Not a Brake on Program For Needed Food

BY L. J. NORTON
Professor of Agricultural Economics,
University of Illinois,
College of Agriculture

The mortgage debt on Illinois farm land was estimated at $21 million dollars on January 1, 1940. The census reports the value of farm real estate in Illinois at $2,537 million dollars in 1940. Thus the mortgage represented only 17 cents of each dollar of value—a comparatively light burden.

The census reports that only 38 per cent of owner-operators reported mortgage debts in 1940. Their mortgages represented 43 per cent of the value of their real estate. A study made in McHenry county, in 1941 showed that only 13 out of 61, or 21 per cent, of the owner and part-owner farmers had debts in excess of 40 per cent of assets. For the 61 owners and part-owners, all debts amounted to 28 per cent of farm assets.

The burden of mortgage debts on Illinois farms is now moderate. In most instances they constitute no handicap to any added financing that may be needed to permit the expanding of farm production to meet wartime needs.

When the war is over, the farmers who do not have excessive debts will be in a better position to meet the competition that will develop in that period than those with large debts.

At the close of the last war many Illinois farmers were heavily burdened with debt. The total farm mortgage debt had increased from 267 million dollars in 1910 to 706 million in 1923. The principal cause of this large increase was the purchase of land at advancing prices, particularly in 1918 and 1919. Illinois farm-land averaged 61 per cent higher in price on March 1, 1920, than on the same date in 1913. Much of this added debt was finally extinguished by the borrowers' losing their farms.

Will Illinois farmers be burdened after this war with a similar increase in debt? The answer will depend largely on the extent to which they purchase land at high prices with borrowed funds. In wartime there is a strong incentive to buy land: It will earn a greater annual return than the annual interest charge; the rent paid by share-tenants to the farm owners in such periods often exceeds interest at the usual mortgage rate on the value on the farm.

The risk in connection with purchases of land in times of high prices is great. Such periods have typically been of short duration and have been followed by periods when commodity prices, farm incomes and land values all declined. Then the burden of debt became more difficult to carry.

The great mistake made in pricing land in periods of high prices is to value it on the assumption that high prices and incomes will continue indefinitely. For example if incomes double, many assume that the value of the land is doubled. This is an error, for long-time value depends on long-time income—not on temporarily high income.

To avoid this error, no one should pay more for a farm than its long-time earning value warrants, plus an allowance for the present worth of the added income to be expected during the period of increased income.

Any added debt incurred because of temporary high prices should be paid off during the period of increased incomes. If this is not done, purchasers have added debts (when prices decline) with no added income to pay them.

To illustrate, if it is expected that incomes will be 50 percent higher for a period of four years, land is not worth 50 per cent more, but something less than 10 per cent more, and then only at the beginning of the period.

If prospective land buyers will keep this basic rule in mind: Do not value land on the assumption that temporarily high incomes will be permanent, many of the difficulties of excessive debts will be avoided. Land values are largely determined by past conditions, but their soundness depends on future income. Since the future is always uncertain, extreme caution should be exercised in assuming debts to buy land at high prices.

Even though the total mortgage debt in Illinois is not now large, it is heavy in individual cases. For such farmers this is a good time to get debts paid down to safe levels.

Pursuit planes are the best defense against enemy aircraft. The interception service, made up of observers spotted over the countryside, plots the course of approaching bombers, then radios the pursuit leaders in code.

BALLOT BOX OCCUPIES DIXON CLUBWOMEN; COMPTON WOMAN HEADS COUNTY FEDERATION

Election ballots are foremost in the minds of Dixon Woman's club members this week, what with county federation officers to be selected yesterday, the April primaries today, and naming of district federation officers scheduled for Thursday at Rock Falls. Approximately 50 delegates, representing senior Women's clubs of the Lee County Federation assembled Monday afternoon at the Congregational church in Amboy for their spring convention. Mrs. Floyd Beemer of Compton was elected president, succeeding Mrs. Harry Patterson of Franklin Grove. Mrs. J. H. Hughes, president of the Amboy Woman's club, was named vice president, and Mrs. C. G. Poole of Compton is the new secretary-treasurer. Mrs. O. C. Holt of Amboy submitted the report of the nominating committee.

Mrs. J. R. McDaniel, president of the Dixon Woman's club, extended an invitation to the club presidents, their officers and members to be guests of the local club on Saturday, April 25, at the Loveland Community House. Caryl M. Schumann of Norwood Park, a dramatic artist, will address the clubwomen on "The American Way."

Mrs. Carl Straw of the local club presented her views on "The Consumer's Stake in Agricultural Adjustment," and Miss Lora Miller of Paw Paw chose an equally timely subject for her talk, "Social and Political Aspects of India." Special music was furnished by I. E. Bartlett, violinist, with Mrs. Bartlett playing his piano accompaniments.

Mrs. Hughes welcomed the guests at yesterday's convention, and Mrs. Patterson responded. Refreshments were served by members of the hostess club.

Attending from Dixon, in addition to Mrs. McDaniel and Mrs. Straw were Miss Anne Eustace and Mrs. L. N. Deutsch.

LEAVES FOR EAST

Mrs. A. E. Marth left today on a three weeks' trip which will take her to Tazewell, Va., for a visit with her daughter, Miss Gladys Marth, who teaches Bible in the Tazewell public schools, to Washington, D. C. to spend some time with her son, Paul, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to New York City, where she will be the guest of her brother, Atty. Logan Fulbright, and Buffalo, for a visit with a niece, Mrs. William Glenn.

Directs Choir

Father Kelly

One of the first of nine liturgical concerts which the Loras college vested choir of Dubuque, Iowa has scheduled for the week of April 19, will be presented at St. Patrick's Catholic church at 8:15 o'clock Sunday evening.

The male choir, composed of 46 voices, will travel through western Illinois and southern Wisconsin on their 1942 tour, with the Rev. Emmet G. Kelly directing the singers, and Dr. Edward Eigenschenk appearing as guest organist.

Father Kelly was a prominent member of the Loras vested choir under the late Dr. Alphonse Dress, founder of the organization, and is director of the Loras Conservatory of Music, as well as director of the Priests choir. Dr. Eigenschenk is known internationally as a concert organist and instructor. He is a member of the Loras Conservatory staff and of the faculty of the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

Of particular interest to Dixon music lovers is the fact that one of the singers, Eugene Curran, is a son of the Harold Currans of Freeport, formerly of Dixon.

WHO'S NEW CLUB

Mrs. Killeen, home service director, will address members of the Who's New club at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Loveland Community House. Her subject will be "Nutrition."

SCOUT LEADERS

In the absence of Miss Grace Ritson, Girl Scout director, who is in New York City, Wednesday's meeting of the Girl Scout Leaders' association will be postponed.

May-Leffelman Vows Are Read at Church Altar

The Rev. Father T. L. Walsh celebrated the nuptial mass at St. Patrick's Catholic church on Saturday morning, in which Miss Eileen Elizabeth Leffelman, younger daughter of Mrs. Joseph Leffelman of Sublette, became the bride of La Verne John May, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter May of 714 Douglas avenue. About 100 relatives and friends witnessed the single ring ceremony, performed at 9 o'clock.

Hydrangeas and lighted cathedral candles decorated the church. St. Patrick's choir sang the mass.

The full skirt of the bride's white satin wedding gown extended in a long train, and her full-length veil fell from a crown of pearls. Her pearl necklace was the bridegroom's gift, and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink, orchid and white sweet peas. Paul Vassen of Sublette gave his cousin in marriage.

Miss Lovella May, as maid of honor for her brother's bride, was dressed in pink cerise, with a matching fingertip veil that was held to her hair by a wreath of pink flowers. Her colonial bouquet also contained sweet peas.

Ralph Leffelman of Sublette was best man for Mr. May.

Mrs. Leffelman was dressed in pale blue, with black accessories, and Mrs. May chose a beige ensemble. Pink carnations formed their shoulder bouquets.

Following a wedding breakfast for 26 guests, Mr. May and his bride left for Wisconsin on a two weeks' honeymoon. After their return, they will be at home at 314 Concord avenue, Rockford.

Mrs. May formerly attended St. Mary's school at Sublette, and was graduated from Amboy Community high school. Until recently, she was employed at the Freeman Shoe company. The bridegroom, a graduate of Dixon high school, is with the Ingersoll Steel mills in Rockford.

Out of town guests here for the wedding included his sister, Mrs. Daniel Mathews of Kankakee; his aunt, Mrs. Julia Weston of Storm Lake, Iowa; his brother, Sgt. Harold J. May of Fort Bragg, North Carolina; the bride's sisters, Mrs. Leroy Payne and Mr. Payne of Polo, and the Misses Doree and Helen Leffelman of Sublette; Leonard and George Vassen, Miss Irene Vassen, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leffelman and son, Sublette; Mrs. Gilma Huggins, Elmhurst, Ill.; and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Egler, Rockford.

Musical Narrative Is Brimming With National Spirit

From the opening song, "Softly Now the Light of Day," to the closing chorus, "Crown of Freedom," the musical narrative, "America Singing", which sophomores of Dixon high school have composed for Friday evening maintains an alert, eager national spirit that maintains high civilian morale and dispels the gloom that dark news from abroad casts upon a proud country.

A quartet of narrators will share responsibility for maintaining the show's continuity, assisted by a mixed chorus of more than 100 students, mostly juniors and sophomores.

In addition to the narrative, the evening's performance is to include the Gilbert and Sullivan dramatic cantata, "Trial by Jury," a tuneless story of a British court of justice, about 1885. Both shows will be staged in the Dixon high school auditorium, under the direction of Miss Sara Jane Haven, faculty member.

For Apple Blossom Time

Merry Hull designed these finger-free gloves for apple-blossom time and on through this summer, too. Gloves, and the matching hat of bird's-eye cotton pique, can all be rinsed out with little trouble.

"Echo" Hat

Mainbocher designed this gray flannel coat with black braid in striking lines. The war-smart costume illustrates an important point made by Mainbocher for spring and summer, 1942. Instead of a hat, an "echo" is worn in the hair. The one shown is a bow of the same braid that trims the coat.

WA-TAN-YANS ARE ANNOUNCING BOX SOCIAL SUPPER

Business and professional women of Wa-Tan-Ye will be packing lunch boxes on Thursday evening and unpacking them at the home of Mrs. Harry Beard, where the evening's hostess committee will be entertaining with an old-fashioned box social. The boxes, which are to contain lunch for one only, instead of two, will be auctioned, and after the supper, there will be games of bingo, with defense stamps as awards.

The auction is scheduled to get underway at 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. M. E. Potter is chairman of the April hostess committee. Mrs. Beard and Miss Gertrude Wilhelm are her co-hostesses.

ATTEND BANQUET FOR ALUMNI OF ILLINOIS COLLEGE

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Beede, Miss Ruby Nattress and Miss Katherine O'Rourke were in Freeport, Saturday evening, attending the fifth annual banquet of the Illinois College Alumni association in the Hunt room of the Hotel Freeport.

Mrs. Charles Rammelkamp of Jacksonville, editor of the Alumni Quarterly, and Dr. Gary Hudson, president of the college, were special guests. The Rev. Cal Carriel of Dubuque, Iowa, president of the association, is a brother of a former head of the Dixon State hospital.

A Thought for Today

Yea, the light of the wicked shall be put out, and the spark of his fire shall not shine. Job 18:5.

Corruption springs from light: 'tis one same power. Creates, preserves, destroys; matter whereon it works, on e'er self-transmutative form, common to now the living, now the dead.—Bailey.

Rumors vs. Facts

In a certain army camp during the first World War there was a battalion of men all dressed up to go somewhere, but none knew the destination. We are not competent to say whether the officers knew where the outfit was going. Perhaps the captains and major knew, but didn't tell the lieutenants.

What the officers knew doesn't concern us here. The men knew they were going to be moved because of certain instructions with regard to mail.

So the enlisted men got busy and made guesses. "Presently it was 'authoritatively' stated by some one who knew a fellow who was orderly to the major that the battalion was proceeding to Florida. It was also stated that the destination was New York, Philadelphia, Newport News and San Francisco. All the while there was an undercurrent of conviction that the battalion was to be dismantled and the men were to be placed on guard duty at some undisclosed point for the duration of the war. The last rumor aroused intense anger. Those who have circulated among soldiers in war time know that the men want to get into action. They do not want guard duty. They want to fight and have the war over with as soon as possible.

The anger increased gradually until the major was in a serious situation. As he walked down the company street, pebbles were tossed at his back. The men had two things to believe. One was that as a trained artillery outfit they were to be sent overseas and used to win the war. That was logical. The other was that the battalion was to be transformed into a sort of infantry unit and humiliated with home guard duty for the rest of the war. That was illogical. People usually believe illogical things when denied access to the truth. So the men were convinced that something illogical was about to happen to them.

About the time the situation became unbearable, and while the men were blaming the major's fancied "incompetence" for their imaginary and prospective humiliation, the order came to pack up, and the men were hustled to Boston and aboard a transport—to their intense delight.

It would not have been proper for the major to have issued a statement, even if he had been able to do so, because of the possibility of enemy espionage.

MEXICAN MASQUERADE

BY CECIL CARNES

ASIA'S GETAWAY

CHAPTER XVIII

"ALLAN!" He marveled at the way Asia's wonderful eyes were suddenly lighted by the fire of new hope. "You've come to save me! He will—he will shoot me, that Escobar!"

"I believe that's the idea," said Allan. "So think fast, lady! You can drive a car? Good! Do you happen to know where I left mine?" She nodded. Poona, she said, had told her. "Okay—here are the keys. Your pals didn't take them from me, thank goodness. Now, you hop in the sedan and beat it for the border—Mexicali. Understand?"

"Yes, yes! But—that devil will catch me!"

"Leave him to me. I think I can fix him. Got any cash?" She shook her head. "Here's a hundred. Will that get you anywhere?"

"Yes! It will take me in the States—to where I have resources! Oh, Allan—how can I ever repay you?"

"We'll, you might send me your address. Write me care of General Delivery, San Diego. Then I will come to you and—claim my reward! How's that?"

"Oh, Allan—it will be wonderful! You shall have anything I can give you—everything!"

"Little liar," said Allan to himself cheerfully. He looked around. "Nobody about for the moment," he said aloud. "Get going, Asia, and keep your foot on the gas till you hit the border. Vamoose!"

He was serious, however, when he met Escobar coming down the steps of the bungalow. The officer was smiling and gay till Allan summoned his courage and spoke bluntly to the point.

"You won't like it, but—I've just set Asia free."

"The devil you have!" For the first time, Allan saw the colonel really angry; his brow was a thundercloud, his eyes were coals of fire. "You carry sentiment a bit too far, senior! That woman—"

"I gave her my car and she's headed for Mexicali by now. I'm going to carry sentiment a little farther, Colonel. I was able to do you a small service once, and you promised to return the favor. I'm going to ask you to see she is allowed to cross the border unchecked."

He could open his mouth to protest, a step slidden on the tiles behind the colonel. Kay Sargent appeared from the foyer, and one look at her white face told Allan she must have heard the conversation. She spoke to him without meeting his eyes.

"My father, Mr. Steele?"

"He's over in the shed where they put your car. I have come to get you and bring you to him—"

"I wouldn't dream of troubling you. Colonel Escobar, will you take me across?"

"Senorita! With pleasure! Your servant always!"

"Kay! For heaven's sake, listen, will you—"

Her lifted chin told him she wouldn't. The colonel extended his elbow. She put her fingertips on his arm. And at the last she couldn't resist a touch of feminine malice. She looked at Allan.

"You are becoming more adept at intrigue, I see. This time you remembered to wipe off the lipstick!"

They turned together and took the path to the pier. When they reached the dock, he saw them pause as the colonel accepted a dispatch case from a newly arrived messenger. Then they were in the launch—pushing off—and no backward glance from Kay!

Twenty minutes later Escobar came striding back, his spurs jingling briskly, to halt a few paces before him. Allan looked up. The colonel was grave, but no longer appeared angry. He saluted formally.

"I believe I owe you an apology—Captain Steele?"

"I believe you do," said Allan. "Forget it," he added after a moment. "How did you find out?"

"It was not difficult. I was interested in a young man who came to Lower California in mid-summer to take photographs. I had inquiries made in San Francisco. The editor of the Golden Horn Review confirmed your story. However, our men are very thorough; they also inquired of the minor members of the magazine staff and they had never heard of a Mr. Allan Steele. That was the report I received."

"I get it. So then—"

"So then I began remembering little things I noticed about you. The way you rode your horse like a soldier. The way you started once to salute me, then lifted your hat instead. I suggested a possibility to our agents in California. Your army list showed a Capt. Allan Steele, U. S. Cavalry, stationed at San Diego but at present detached for special duty! The report reached me only a few minutes ago. Your regulations, no doubt, forbade your revealing your status to me—or anyone."

"Yes, I couldn't tell—anyone. I know now just how you felt when you said you had to put yourself in a bad light with your friends because they did not know you were in the Mexican secret service."

"Quite so. It is too bad we have to masquerade ourselves, sometimes, in order to unmask others. Incidentally, I can see now you had more than a sentimental interest in releasing the lovely Asia."

"Oh, sure. She'd have been wasted on you, Colonel—you only wanted to shoot her—but she can be very useful to me. I'll get our border officials on the phone long before she reaches Mexicali and Calexico."

"The American eagle has eyes, Colonel Escobar. Those eyes will be on her from the moment she sets foot in the States till she leads us to Gen. Baron Kallumari Sagawa; and they will be on Sagawa till he leads us to a certain German agent who was in on this Japanese camouflage; and they'll be on the Nazi agent until he innocently reveals the location of the secret Nazi base in the Pacific from which that bomber must have come this morning, summoned by Watanabe before a bullet put him out."

"Splendid! I knew that would be your program, for it is exactly the clever strategy I would have adopted in your place," said the colonel artlessly. "And now, Captain Steele, our masquerade here is ended. You will be going home—and to the further pursuit of Asia, no doubt! But someday, when this mad world is sane again, you will come to see me in Mexico City, I hope. We will talk over these strange times. And you will bring Senora Steele, eh? She, too, will have memories."

"Senora Steele!" Allan laughed shortly. "You're wrong there, Colonel. I'm more likely to lead her to jail than to the altar!"

"Poof! I don't mean Asia! I mean the equally charming young lady who is waiting for you with her father—over there!" The officer jerked his head toward the Peninsula. "You will find her very penitent, very anxious to make amends for having misjudged you."

"What!" Allan came to his feet like a jack-in-the-box, his heart beating wildly. "Do you mean to say you—"

Escobar's white teeth were flashing in a smile as he held out his hand. "I knew you couldn't tell her, my friend, so—I did!"

THE END

age. But if you multiply that artillery battalion of perhaps 1,000 men by 130,000, you have 130 million, which is the population of the United States. And if you put the whole population to guessing at illogical things, as they may do if denied access to the truth, you may develop an explosive situation. If further censorship is imposed in the United States with regard to war news, it should be calculated to give all the truth that will not aid or encourage the enemy, but at the same time be reassuring to the people. When the human mind begins working, it needs something on which to work. If it has no facts handy, it will inflate rumors and rumors of rumors, and many of these will be of more use and comfort to the enemy than the truth.

It's Good to Relax and Forget

Everything operated properly helps to win the war—and the motion picture theater is a helper because it enables people to forget the war and relax now and then. Even when it does advert to war topics, as it may in some of the various features, the purpose is to build morale and strengthen determination.

Much of the war news is essential for the people, and the interpretations thereof are helpful to an understanding of the situation. But after people have read the news in the papers, and have heard it on the radio, they like to chuck the whole thing and find an evening of relaxation in the world of fantasy where shadows speak and sing.

The desire for escape from the world of reality has been understood fully by mental experts. It is a useful escape as long as it is wholesome. And as long as it is wholesome it need not be utterly constructive. Everything need not point a moral or teach a lesson. The picture people are doing a useful work and as time passes their duties may become heavier.

Handling a Hornet's Nest

The War Production Board can have a sigh of relief. It has plunged resolutely into that touchiest of hornets' nests—women's fashions. By a miracle, compounded of hard work and good sense, it devised a material-saving formula which apparently is going to be accepted without furor.

Meanwhile Leon Henderson is wondering how he will fare when the time comes to impose a price ceiling on women's wear.

Nowhere is styling so important. Nowhere does the inspiration of an artist contribute so much to making one pound of material worth 10 times as much as another pound off the same cotton patch. Nowhere can a misstep cause more male anguish. Many an hour of OPA worry has gone into the problem, and the end is not yet.

The Lesson of Bataan

Bataan has fallen. When the conquest of the Philippines is completed 200,000 picked Japanese shock troops will be released for service against Australia, India, or perhaps Siberia. When and if Corregidor falls, warcraft, transports and supply ships will be freed to initiate or support some other invasion. The bombers and fighting planes which have been harrying Wainwright's gallant band can add to Japanese superiority over our air forces elsewhere.

We are impressed with the lesson of Bataan—that every day we can tie up axis men and equipment is another day in which the machine that will save democracy can be geared to higher speed and increased efficiency.

A pessimist is a man who has met too many optimists.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, April 13—A certain sluggishness within the Nazi military is now visible to the eye.

General Rommel's drive in Libya should have been started weeks before if the Nazi war machine was still clicking at its old-time pace. His preparations were not well concealed and lagged behind former Hitler tempo.

Now he has only about six weeks left before sweltering desert heat joins the side of the British defenders of the Near East.

The Russians have lately picked up some German prisoners with no more than five or six weeks' training. It is murder to send men with no more experience into battle, even to fill out depleted units, as is apparently being done.

Certainly the German general staff would not be using them anywhere if manpower was not a pressing problem.

The best balance estimate here of Hitler's losses to date, mostly in Russia, is 1,750,000 killed and about the same number severely wounded. This would mean around 3,500,000 Nazis out of action.

These are the best trained German troops—specialized shock troops, sappers, engineers, parachutists (the flower of the German army as Berlin would call it).

They cannot be replaced. They were especially selected for their superior talents and physical stamina.

How far the Germans have been pinched is attested by the fact that they are filling up their losses on the south Russian front with Balkan soldiers.

Several of their mechanized units have been reorganized into infantry because equipment was not available for them.

These heartening suggestions have bolstered hopes for the Russian cause, but not beyond the line set forth in this column yesterday.

Roosevelt has obviously been trying to keep out of the British-India negotiations, but at the same time has sent to Delhi his former assistant secretary of war, Louis Johnson.

The subtlety of this move may have escaped appreciation among us here at home, but it was designed to inform the Indians that Roosevelt, as far as he could diplomatically go, sympathized with their longing for independence.

Johnson went there more or less to underwrite by his presence the promise of the British for post-war dominion status. He did not mix in Indian affairs, of course, but the British promised India dominion status once before, in 1916, and then forgot it.

Johnson, standing in the background, was to serve as a guarantee that when the war is over, the United States would see to it that India would get what Cripps tried to promise.

For this reason, news of the rejection of the Cripps offer by the Congress party and the Moslem League was especially hard to take here.

A harsher system for post-war America than any yet suggested by Roosevelt's National Planning Commission is offered in preliminary form now by Stuart Chase, who sometimes in the past has been a prophet of economic policies of the government.

In a book, out today, called "The Road We are Traveling," published by the Twentieth Century Fund (foreword by Assistant State Secretary Adolph Berle), Chase carries the vague post-war outlines of the planning board several steps further. He adapts Roosevelt's promise of four freedoms to a new kind of an economic system.

The road we are traveling, he says, is leading to control of industry by government without ownership of industry by government.

He calls this system by the mysterious symbol of "X," but he defines it as a strong centralized government, with the executive arm growing at the expense of the legislative and judicial arms; Underwriting by the government of employment, social security, food, housing and medical care, with large expenditures financed by further post-war increase in the federal debt; government control of labor unions, foreign trade, agricultural production, hydroelectric power, coal, petroleum, natural gas, communications, propaganda, railways, highways, airways.

It sounds like a makeshift socialism in the shell of democracy and private ownership, whereby the government would fix production limits, ration out raw materials through priorities, set prices and what not.

Among the vast blank spaces in Chase's reasoning is the question of who will have or want the ownership of any business under such

Road Building to Be at Low Ebb in County this Year

Road building operations in Lee county, as well as throughout the United States this year will be at the lowest ebb in many seasons, it was indicated today at the office of County Superintendent Fred W. Leake. The program of operations in Lee county, it appeared, would be greatly reduced with no new construction to be started.

The following notice was received today by Superintendent Leake from George H. Baker, engineer of county roads and city streets of the Illinois department of highways:

"The War Production Board conservation prohibits starting highway construction projects until preference rating is issued or project specifically authorized by the director of industry operation. This applies to any project whether or not critical materials involved. Do not permit any work to start on projects not covered by preference rating. This ruling does not effect projects actually under construction prior to April 9'.

The largest project contemplated in Lee county during 1942 was the paving of several blocks of streets in the village of Compton to be paid for by county gas tax funds. This project, it was said, was halted by the federal order and Superintendent Leake today asked advice on the continuation of the improvement on the Nachusa and County Home roads which were scheduled to be treated to black-top surfaces during the coming months. It was stated that the order did not affect the improvement being made on the Rock Island road in Nelson township.

Knox Says That Repeal of Work Bill is Wrong

Washington, April 14—(AP)—Secretary of the Navy Knox told congress today that suspension of the 40-hour work week law would result "only in confusion and delay," opposed a flat percentage limitation on war profits and urged a cessation of industrial disputes over the closed shop issue.

He said there was no need for labor legislation so far as the navy was concerned.

Knox told the house naval committee flatly that he thought the matter of changing the 40-hour week was only a question of wages and would mean a 10 per cent cut in the income of workers.

a system. If the government is going to run all business, management will be reduced to the status of an employee of the government, just like labor. If government is going to control everything else in business, it will have to control profits.

Any political machine able to fix business profits in this country as well as wages ought to be able to elect itself indefinitely and establish a fascist system in perpetuity—or until the money runs out.

And if it fixes pretty good profits, there is going to be a lot of scrambling among the politicians here to buy a little stock on the side.

In any event private ownership loses its meaning in the Chase system.

The economic prophets seem to want to lose the war for democracy in theory, after it is won in fact on the battlefield.

ALSAB MAKES IMPRESSIVE RUN IN CHESAPEAKE RACE

Havre De Grace, Md., April 14.—(AP)—For a colt that hasn't been able to win a race this year, Alsab looked today like a mighty good bet to run away with the heavy sugar in the Kentucky Derby.

Alsab went down to his fifth straight defeat in the Chesapeake trial yesterday but made such an impressive effort that many in the crowd of 12,000 immediately tabbed him as the horse to beat in the big race at Churchill Downs May 2.

R. Sterling Clark's Colchis, which deadheaded Alsab in the eastern shore handicap last fall, came up with another brilliant performance yesterday to beat him by a neck in the six-furlong race run in 1:12 3-5.

Alsab was last in the field of six until they hit the home stretch. Then Jockey Al Schmidt sent him up on the outside with a mighty rush that would have carried him to victory in a few more strides. The effort indicated that Alsab is ready for a real test. Two other Derby candidates, Mrs. Ralph McIlvain's Bright Willie, a flash in Florida, and the Foxchaser Farm's Baby Dumping, brought up the rear. They set the early pace but folded in the stretch.

THE RECUPERATING 'BABE' PICKS PIRATES TO WIN

Hollywood, April 14.—(AP)—The doctor says Babe Ruth is getting along perfectly all right, but some interviewers wondered just a bit. The big fellow, recovering from pneumonia, said he liked the Pittsburgh Pirates to win the National League pennant.

"Sure, I know most of the boys are picking them fourth or fifth, but I think Frankie Frisch's boys are going to be a big surprise. Watch 'em," said the Babe, with just a trace of defiance.

Of course it was no surprise when he picked his old team, the Yankees, to repeat in the American League.

Ladies' Kegling Circuit Progresses With Minor Changes

Nu-Fashion Team Downs Pipers in Two; Gardens In Sole Claim To Second; And Eichlers Drop To Third In Standings

Dr. Bend Bowlers And Dixon Floral Shop Take Shut-Out Victories; Carson And Legore Bowl High Evening Series

Even though dropping two games yesterday, the Peter Piper lady bowlers retained their rule over the Ladies' Bowling league at the Dixon Recreation. The Budweiser Gardens team, hanging grimly to second place, cut the Piper gals' control to a margin of two by winning two games. The Eichler Bros. kegglers, who had been in a tie for second with the Budweiser were nosed out of the runner-up spot by being subjected to a two-game thumping, and now stand in third, one game out from second. Dr. Bend's bowlers garnered a slam match win to crawl within one game of third place.

Peter Pipers lost the first game of their match with the Nu-Fashion Beauty Nook by a 97-pin margin, then made things more interesting in the second affair by getting within 12 points of the Beauticians and in the third they finally picked one up the tough way which was by only one point at 818 to 817. Lois McCordle ran off the leading count for the Piper aggregation with a series of 436 while Hess led the Nu-Fashion victory with a series of 464.

The Budweiser Gardens team rolled to within two games of the Piper team by defeating the Dixon Cafe ladies in two out of three. The Gardens team won their first game by a margin of 36 points, lost the second by a wide count and then sailed to an easy win in the third game. Ellis performed some of yesterday's most consistent bowling as she turned in games of 157, 159 and 169 to lead the Gardens team with a series of 485. G. Hammarstrom carried the Cafe scoring honors with a series of 450.

Eichlers lost two to the Plum Hollow women. The first one by a 54 pin breach, managed to win the second easily but dropped the last one by the close width of only two pins. Wallin bowled high for the Golfers with a 424 series and Shaulis turned in some fifty counts of 153, 169 and 163 for a series of 490 which was high for the Eichler team.

The Dr. Bend bowlers made the most appreciable gain in the standings last night by winning three straight over the Frazier Roofing team and climbing within one game of the third place Eichler outfit. Egan turned in a high 492 series to pace the Bend team and Hecker was high for the Roogers with a 376 count.

The Dixon Floral Shop matched the Bend performance by winning three and remaining in a fourth place tie with them. The Floral victory was over the Villiger Drugists. Phyllis Carson sparked the Floral win with her spotlight performance of a 558 series. Slothower was high point kegler for the Drugists with a series of 437.

The Rainbow Inn took a two game victory over the Lorene Beauty Shoppe. The win earned the Inn team a fifth place tie with the Villiger team. Legore ran off with all the match honors as she tripped the pins to the tune of a beautiful 522 series. Salisbury did the leading honors for the Lorene bowlers with a 407 series.

The Kathryn Beard team had an easy ride to a two game win over the Christos Grocers. H. Klein set the leading series for the Beard quintet with a 444 score. Fischer was the only grocer to get into the four hundred last night as she turned in a series of 433.

The Manhattan Cafe team turned back the Bowman team in two straight and then dropped the third. Moore led the Cafe with a series of 434 and Courtwright was high for the match as she paced the Shoe team with a 449 series.

Byron Nelson Wins Coveted Masters' Tournament Title

Augusta, Ga., April 14.—(AP)—

Byron Nelson, called by such an authority as Tommy Armour

"The greatest golfer I ever saw," sported his second masters' championship today as the winter tour came to an official end and the professionals scattered to their respective home courses to see if they still had any balls and steelshafted clubs to sell.

The slim, red-faced sharpshooter gathered himself together

after taking a nerve-shattering great on the first hole to shoot a six and 69 and defeat his old Fort Worth friend, Ben Hogan, by a single stroke in yesterday's playoff for what probably will be the last Masters' tournament until after the war. They had tied at the end of the regulation 72 holes at 280 strokes apiece.

The play-off between these two iron-nerved competitors, who have been battling each other ever since they were caddies, was a corker.

In the end it was Hogan, the fabulous little money winner, who was forced to bow. He has not yet won a major championship.

At the outset, it looked like a walkaway for Hogan. Nelson pushed his opening drive far into the woods on the right of the first green and was lucky to wind up with a six. When Hogan won the fourth hole with a par three to go three up it looked like it was all over.

But it proved to be only the start of a see-saw struggle that saw Nelson come back and take the lead with a sensational eagle three on the eighth hole—a lead he never relinquished. He was out in 35 to Hogan's 36, and they both blazed home in 34 as a crowd of nearly 2,500 rampaged over the fairways.

When it was over and the money was split—$1500 to Nelson, $800 to Hogan—the announcement was Shown Hook-up Between General Electric and Germany's Krupp Works

Washington, April 14—(AP)—A vast patent pool, described as linking the General Electric Company in this country with Krupp interests in Germany, was pictured as a war production bottleneck today by John Henry Lewin, special assistant to the attorney general.

The government lawyer presented a mass of 124 exhibits from the justice department anti-trust files before the senate patents committee to support his charges that General Electric and its subsidiaries had entered into a patent pool arrangement with the German interests involving tungsten carbide.

This, Lewin told senators, is a metal hardening material vital to the machine-tool industry and production of guns, shells, armor-plate, airplanes and many other munitions of war.

Suggested Retail Sales Tax for Revenue Source

Washington, April 14—(AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States proposed today that congress impose a retail sales tax at a rate approaching 10 per cent to raise $5,800,000,000 in new revenue.

Ellsworth C. Alvord, chairman of the Chamber's federal finance committee, made the recommendation to the house ways and means committee as part of an overall war revenue program which included increases in both the present corporate and individual taxes, plus a five per cent added withholding tax on compensation, dividends and interest paid to individuals.

Alvord said the Chamber recommended that the sales tax be applied to tangible personal property with exemptions limited to purchases by federal, state and local governments.

U.S. Makes Nylon Money Now Instead of Silk

Washington, April 14—(AP)—Got any nylon money?

Treasury officials disclosed today that currency printed on paper containing nylon instead of silk was put into test circulation a few days ago but no one seems to have spotted it.

The first batch of the 100 per cent homemade brand of American money was distributed through the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank as a test to determine whether it wore as well as the old kind.

General circulation of the new brand, however, must wait until the stock of silk-threaded paper is used up.

Secret service agents doubt whether anything but a chemical analysis would show the difference between the new and the old.

War Takes Strike at All Types of Recordings

New York, April 14—(AP)—The war is striking directly at the heart of the talking machine—as well as the automobile.

Leading representatives of the phonograph recording industry said today that curtailment of basic supplies from the East Indies probably would bring about a tremendous drop in the number of records produced in 1942.

The rationing, when it comes, will alike affect the musical diet of boogie-woogie fan and lover of symphonic classics.

"No, it isn't the rubber shortage we never did make records from rubber," said one company official. "It's shellac, and shellac comes from the East Indies, too."

Divisions of shellac to vital war industries has begun already and the War Production Board is expected shortly to issue further curbs on its use.

Mrs. Ruth C. Lievan of this city has filed an action for divorce in Lee County Circuit court in which she charges Ralph Lievan with desertion. According to the petition, the couple were married in Wilmington, Del., Sept. 5, 1918 and her husband deserted her at Rapids City, S. D., July 10, 1935. She asks the custody of the children.

New First Aid Class—

Five Boy Scouts of Troop No. 572 presented a demonstration under the direction of their leader, Enos Keithley, before J. R. Palmer's advanced class in First Aid last evening at the Loveland Community House. The troop was awarded a rating of 95 per cent in first aid competition for 19 northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin troops at Rockford on Saturday. The Scouts participating last evening were Harvie Ware, Bob Woodworth, Bob Wentling, Billy Goff, and Kenneth Love. Kenneth was substituting for Bob Whiting, who could not be present.

Scouts Demonstrate—

J. R. Palmer, first aid chairman of the Lee County Red Cross, announces a new class in advanced first aid instruction for students on the first night that rain blacks out the waters between Corregidor and the mainland. The rainy season starts within the next few days.

Although the war department communique late yesterday made no mention of the type of the Japanese vessel sunk off Bataan or its exact position, it was considered possible the ship was a motor barge carrier attempting to get safely inside Manila bay with additional boats for a landing attempt.

In the assault the Japanese were able to come from both the Bataan shore and the Cavite shore of the bay. Troop-carrying barges would be given close support by military patrol craft armed with small cannon. Such patrol boats already have been reported operating in the bay.

Typical Tactics

The assault force itself would consist of both infantry and light artillery. Typical Japanese tactics would call for the boats to converge on the island after intensive air or artillery bombardment or both, depending on weather conditions.

General Wainwright reported last night that Corregidor was under almost constant fire of Japanese artillery on both the north and south shores of the bay and it was expected that the Japanese would intensify the bombardment by bringing heavy guns into position on Bataan.

Thus far in the war Japanese landings have been precision maneuvers. Motor barges in formation roar full speed at a beach, shut off their engines in unison a short distance off shore, drop anchors and ease the boats in until they ground, at about 50 yard intervals.

Ordinarily the landing force is made up of at least one division with full equipment, including infantry, field artillery, engineers and light tanks. It was doubtful, however, that such a force could be used against rocky Corregidor.

Alleged Prisoners

Tokyo (From Japanese Broadcasts) April 14—(AP)—An Imperial headquarters communique declared today that Japanese forces had captured 40,000 prisoners, including 15 generals, from the beginning of the Bataan offensive up to last Sunday.

Of these, it said, 6,700 were United States (as distinguished from native Filipino) troops.

Among the generals it mentioned: Major General Edward P. King, Jr. identified as commander of United States forces in the peninsula.

Major General George M. Parker, Jr. identified as commander of the First Army Corps.

Major General George M. Parker, Jr. identified as commander of the First Army Corps.

Major General Francisco, who was described as commander of the Filipino forces.

The communique listed as booty: 196 guns, including heavy artillery; 320 machine guns, 500 automatic rifles, 10,000 rifles, 124 tanks and armored cars, 220 cars and other arms and munitions.

120,000 tons, including two American vessels in a convoy returning from the Russian Arctic port of Murmansk.

The high command said 12 ships were sunk in the Atlantic, most of them "directly off the east coast of America."

4. North Africa—Cairo headquarters reported that British artillery patrols blasted a column of axis tanks, armored cars and artillery in the Temrad sector, 60 miles across the desert no man's land from the main British positions at Torbuk.

An Italian communique said strong British columns, supported by armored units and artillery, were repulsed after fierce fighting.

"The enemy, which suffered heavy losses in killed and wounded, retreated," the Italian high command said.

On Diplomatic Front

On the diplomatic front, the restoration of Laval to power was seen as a decisive move toward plunging France into the axis camp.

A British foreign office spokesman declared the reorganization was forced on Petain by the nazis because "the Germans are to a high degree nervous about affairs in France" resulting from an upswing in pro-allied sympathy in the conquered French republic.

Marshal Petain's decision was announced soon after the Vichy government indefinitely suspended the Riom trial of French leaders charged with being responsible for France's unpreparedness for war.

Germany had complained bitterly that the trial failed to bring out France's "war guilt" for having taken up arms against the reich in the first place.

DNB, the official German news agency, said the decree suspending the trial meant that "the question of responsibility for the war will be raised" when and if the trial is resumed.

On New Foundations

The announcement of the new French government, said Petain, Laval and Darlan in a meeting today decided on "the constitution of a government established on new foundations."

The swarthy Laval, once named Petain's heir as chief of state, was vice premier from July 12, 1940, until Dec. 13, 1940, when the old marshal ousted him in a night-time coup and appointed Darlan as vice premier.

Laval received scant notice from the world after that until Aug. 28, 1941, when a bullet from the gun of Paul Colette, a young Norman, nearly ended his life during a public ceremony in the Bognis des Bordes barracks near the Palace of Versailles.

Marcel Deat, pro-nazi associate of Laval, also was wounded. Upon their urgent request, Marshal Petain on Oct. 3 commuted Colette's death sentence to life imprisonment.

While hostile to Britain, Admiral Darlan is said to be strongly opposed to giving the French fleet to Germany. With Laval once more close to the driver's seat, it remains to be seen whether Darlan's opposition will prevail.

Laval at one time was said to have even gone so far as to negotiate with Germany for a possible French declaration of war against Britain.

Two Truck Crashes

both accidents were the result of trucks travelling too close to vehicles which preceded them on the highway. State Officers George Ives and Kenneth Gentry investigated both crashes and remained on the scene until the wreckage was cleared away.

The general ratio of paper consumption by the government to defense spending is 1,000,000 tons of paper to every $5,000,000 spent.

Negro Tenor

Pruth McFarlin, young negro tenor, will present a concert in the First Christian church on Thursday, April 16 at 8:00 p. m. A graduate of Southern University, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, and Eastman School of Music, Rochester, New York, and now on a concert tour of the northern states in the interest of his own people who have not had his advantages.

It is the humility and sincerity with which he sings, together with his own deep feeling of the music which he creates, that has made Pruth McFarlin known as an inspirational singer. This noted vocalist possesses a truly great voice, rich tones, sweet softness, clear enunciation and wide range. He sings in four languages and his songs are from the pens of such composers as Bach, Handel, Schubert, Messeniet, Donizetti, Puccini, Burleigh, Dett and Ponchelli, as well as the works of composers of the more modern school. Besides his vocal powers, it is the personality of the man which charms his audience. He has appeared before some of the largest audiences in United States and Canada and has always captured the admiration of the public by his artistry and magnetic personality.

This young man has aroused interest, not only because of his singing, but also because he is winning his objective despite the fact that he is a victim of infantile paralysis.

Mr. McFarlin is ably accompanied by his wife, Hazel McFarlin, an artist in her own right and who presents a group of instrumental selections during the intermission.

No admission charge is made for this concert but an offering will be received.

Clark Lee Reveals
How He Made His Way to Australia

(Editor's Note—Here Clark Lee, Associated Press correspondent whose reports from Bataan earned reputations for their accuracy as well as his picture of the human side of the war, analyzes the situation on Japanese-occupied Cebu island on the basis of his first-hand investigation.)

(Characteristically, Lee's own adventures are mentioned only incidentally although he discloses for the first time how he reached Australia from the Philippines. He sailed from Cebu in a freighter which stopped in waters infested with enemy warships to help a supply ship which had run aground. He still has not told how he got from Bataan to Cebu.)

By CLARK LEE

Melbourne, April 14—(AP)—The American-Filipino defenders of Cebu apparently have fought stiffly against the Japanese landing on the island but they were never regarded as having had a chance to make more than a few days stand.

All the odds favored the invaders of that Philippine Eden. Colonel Irvine C. Scudder's men were virtually all native Cebuano who undoubtedly have fought well to defend their homeland but they had no equipment.

I spent two weeks on Cebu in late February and early March, inspecting its defenses as Scudder's guest.

About 80,000 of the island's 1,000,000 populace had been called to service but probably no more than 1,500 had equipment, mostly Springfield or Enfield rifles.

Scudder had one 50 caliber machine-gun, a few of 30 caliber or no artillery or coastal guns.

Almost all of Cebu's coastline is low and sandy—perfect for landing operations—and no point is beyond range of naval guns on warships in the inland sea.

Under General Douglas MacArthur's orders Cebu had been organized as an inter-island shipping center to get supplies to Corregidor and Bataan. MacArthur apparently believed that if he could bring in a few ships safely, he could convince Washington the possibility and advisability of a major effort to reinforce Bataan and hold the Philippines.

Helpless Without Arms

At least three ships made the trip successfully while the writer was in Cebu.

The Japanese discovered the blockade-running early in March and sent warships and planes into the inner Philippine waters where they destroyed or captured a number of small vessels. These were helpless without armament or aerial or naval protection.

Lacking vessels to replace those lost, MacArthur could not restore traffic with Cebu on a sufficient scale to relieve the shortages of his army.

The vessel on which I left Cebu still was at its pier when a Japanese destroyer was sighted two hours from port. The Filipino captain decided to make the run rather than be sunk in harbor.

While naval officer friends who had come from Corregidor stood on the dock and told us what fools we were, we climbed aboard.

With the destroyer speeding from the south, our large unladen ship backed from the pier and the captain tried to swing her around to head northward out of the channel.

But the ship was so light she was unmanageable. Finally, after 55 agonizing minutes, the maneuver succeeded.

Fortunately, however, the destroyer did not sight us and turned back to the south after shelling Cebu.

We hid among the other islands for three days. It was learned later that an enemy vessel was lurking behind another island a few miles away and never discovered us.

We went on to Australia.

POLO

Mrs. Eva Trump

Phone 213X

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Knuth of Sterling called on Polo relatives on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Wilder of Rock Falls spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. Jennie Wilder.

Rev. T. A. Loeppert attended the Rockford sub-district meeting in Roscoe on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Shank and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Duke of Sterling were callers in the Oscar Trump home on Sunday.

Friends here have received word that Mrs. Emma Eakle who has been living at the Brethren home in Mt. Morris is seriously ill in a Freeport hospital. Mrs. Eakle is well known here, having lived here several years before going to Mt. Morris to make her home.

Miss Mary Alice Myers and Private George V. Pierce, Jr., were guests Sunday of friends in Dixon.

Stitch and Chatter Club

Mrs. Joe Enzler will be hostess to the Stitch and Chatter club Wednesday afternoon at her home on East Colden street.

Mrs. Lenhart to Be Hostess

The Would-Be Tourists club meets Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harold Lenhart on South Division street.

Corinthian Chapter

Corinthian chapter No. 412 O. E. S. will observe Exchange Night Wednesday evening. Fifteen officers will attend the meeting at Lanark and fill the stations. It is hoped that a number of members from Corinthian chapter will also attend.

on Wednesday evening at 6:30 p. m. Rev. Albion Tavenner of Sterling will be the speaker. Those interested in the dinner may call Mrs. Betty Rebeck for information.

To Hold Free Classes

A series of special classes in nature study will be conducted at the Pines state park by Mrs. Alice Hills, naturalist, commencing April 22. Those who wish to join this special class may do so without charge of any kind by phoning Mrs. Hills at the park or by gathering with other "students" at 9:15 a. m. at the lodge.

This series of special classes are in addition to the daily nature study hikes which serve the purpose of giving those who go on the hikes some knowledge of the park and its interesting birds and plants. The special class will take more time to study. Many people have requested that classes be formed whereby the succession of flora and fauna may be studied. Therefore, Wednesday mornings and Saturday mornings will be set aside for adult study. The Wednesday morning classes will begin April 22 and the Saturday class will commence May 9.

On Saturday afternoons the time will be devoted to the children. Scouts may come in groups and any child who wishes to know more about the woodland's trees, flowers, birds and mammals.

Walnut 4-H Club Meets

The Walnut 4-H club girls met Saturday, April 11, at the home of Mrs. Harry Bolz in observation of Mobilization Week. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President—Marjorie Young.
Vice President—Wilda Vickery.
Sec. and Treas.—Caryl Hatland.
Press Correspondent—Shirley Barth.

It was decided to enlarge the club, each girl suggesting one new member. Sewing will be the project for the coming year, same as last year.

The girls are very enthusiastic about 4-H work and are looking forward to a successful and busy season.

If there are any other groups of girls who would like to join in 4-H club work they are urged to secure a leader and organize another unit.

Any information regarding this can be obtained from Mrs. Clarence Hatland or from the Home Bureau office at Princeton.

Wheat Production To Be at Lowest Since Year 1912

Springfield, Ill., April 14—(AP)—The smallest Illinois winter wheat crop since 1912 was forecast today by A. J. Surratt, statistician for the federal and state Departments of Agriculture.

In his monthly crop report on conditions as they were April 1, Surratt said "The smallest winter wheat production outlook on a low record acreage, large farm reserves of grain, late farm field work and a tightening farm labor situation are the outstanding features."

More than average loss of winter wheat seeded last fall, and below average condition of the crop was noted in the report which said, however, that rye condition was up to average.

"Farm stocks of soybeans are the largest on record," the report said, "and stocks are above average for corn, wheat and oats. Hay supplies are rather low."

"Farm work has been delayed by rains and slow drying of fields. On April 1, oat seeding was about 25 per cent completed compared with 40 a year ago, and 37 usually sown by that date. Subsoil moisture supply is the best in years."

"Early indications are for fair apple and pear crops and a poor peach crop."

"The supply of farm labor is

"Milk and egg production continue at high levels due to increased prices and more careful feeding for production to meet war time needs."

Wheat Production Figures

Surratt estimated the winter wheat production this year at 19,456,000 bushels—45 per cent under the 36,300,000 produced last year. The acreage seeded to winter wheat last fall was revised to 1,216,000 acres, a 34 per cent reduction from the 1,838,000 acres seeded in the fall of 1940. Last fall's acreage is the lowest recorded.

The low acreage seeded last fall was ascribed to a wet seeding season and reduced AAA acreage allotments. Loss of seeded winter wheat was estimated at seven per cent compared with four per cent a year ago.

Soybean stocks on farms were estimated by Surratt at 13,756,000 bushels compared with 10,823,000 a year ago and a previous high of 12,173,000 April 1, 1940. Other grain stocks on farms, compared with 1941 and the average stocks for the 1930-39 ten-year average, in parentheses, were:

Corn 232,375,000 bushels (182,661,000) (148,884,000); wheat 4,973,000 bushels (3,536,000) (4,384,000), and oats 53,939,000 bushels (53,395,000) (42,002,000).
